DISCOVER YOUR CAREER CHOICES
OVERVIEW

In this activity, students will learn about career clusters, pathways and careers that are available to them. To help them determine what career pathways might be a good fit for them, students will assess their own interests and experiences, conduct online research, and interview those in their families or communities.

SUGGESTED TIME

1-2 class periods, with time outside of class to conduct interviews

GRADE LEVEL

6–12

POWER SKILLS

- Positive Self-Perception
- Empowerment
- Self-Advocacy

OBJECTIVES

Students will:

- complete a career clusters interest survey.
- conduct research on three potential career choices.
- conduct interviews with people in careers that interest them.

COMMON CORE STATE STANDARDS FOR ENGLISH LANGUAGE ARTS/ANCHOR STANDARDS:

- CCSS.ELA-LITERACY.CCRA.R.7: Integrate and evaluate content presented in diverse media and formats, including visually and quantitatively, as well as in words.
- CCSS.ELA-LITERACY.CCRA.SL.1: Prepare for and participate effectively in a range of conversations and collaborations with diverse partners, building on others' ideas and expressing their own clearly and persuasively.
- CCSS.ELA-LITERACY.CCRA.SL.2: Integrate and evaluate information presented in diverse media and formats, including visually, quantitatively, and orally.
- CCSS.ELA-LITERACY.CCRA.W.2: Write informative/explanatory texts to examine and convey complex ideas and information clearly and accurately through the effective selection, organization, and analysis of content.
- CCSS.ELA-LITERACY.CCRA.W.4: Produce clear and coherent writing in which the development, organization, and style are appropriate to task, purpose, and audience.

MATERIALS

- Small signs
- Students’ journals, notebooks or paper and pen/pencil
- White board, chalk board or easel pad/chart paper
PROCEDURE

1. Hang small signs in different areas of the room, each with one of the following career names on it: food scientist, architect, set designer, office manager, teacher, financial planner, governor, physical therapist, golf professional, career counselor, computer engineer, lawyer, electrical engineer, advertising executive, chemist and flight attendant. Ask students to get up and stand by the name of the career they would be most interested in pursuing. Note: To help students visualize careers with which they may be unfamiliar, you may want to include images to support the career names.

2. Direct students at each sign to discuss their choices and explain why they chose the careers they did. Would they actually consider pursuing this career or was it just the best option among the choices? If not, are they interested in a related career?

3. Ask students if they know what the careers on the signs represent. Explain that the U.S. Department of Education has identified 16 career clusters which lead to more than 70 different career pathways and hundreds of jobs. Each cluster represents a broad group of occupations and industries. The 16 careers around the room each fall within one (or sometimes more) of those career clusters.

4. Explain to students that choosing a career cluster or pathway can be overwhelming! There are several steps they can take to help guide them, and they will do three of those steps in this activity. One step they can take to help them choose the clusters or pathways that could be a good fit for them is to match their own interests and experiences with the career possibilities that match them. Distribute copies of the Career Clusters Interest Survey student capture sheet to each student. Read the directions aloud to ensure student understanding, and give students ample time to complete the survey and identify the three boxes with the highest scores.

5. Distribute copies of the Career Clusters Resource student capture sheet, and explain that the numbered boxes from the survey match the career clusters on this sheet. Poll students to see which boxes scored highest among the class. Do students agree with their individual results? Did any of the results surprise them? Based on the results of this survey, what kinds of jobs/career clusters might students want to explore? How can students use a tool like this as they consider their college major and/or career pathway?

6. Explain to students that a second way to learn more about the clusters/pathway that could be a good fit for them is to conduct research. Research can help them learn about the jobs that interest them now and in the future, and can help them learn about projected jobs that may not yet exist!

7. Distribute the Career Clusters Resource student capture sheet. Ask students to identify three specific career choices that they are most interested in exploring further. If students are unsure about what specific careers might interest them, encourage them to visit https://www.bls.gov/ooh/ to learn about different career options.

8. Review the list of Career Exploration Websites, and ask students to put a star by the sites that might offer the best information for the jobs/careers/clusters they are interested in researching. Give students ample time to complete the research information sheet. Invite students to share information about the career that most interested them with the class.

9. Finally, explain to students that yet another tool that can help them identify a career pathway that could be a good fit is to talk to people in jobs that seem interesting. Have students identify someone in their own lives who might have done or is currently doing work that is of interest to them that they could ask to interview. If students cannot identify someone to interview, encourage students with similar interests to pair up for their interviews. Distribute the Interview Forms student capture sheet and challenge students to conduct their interviews and complete the forms. Encourage students to write thank you notes to show their appreciation for their interviewees’ time.
10. Once all research has been completed, invite each student to present a 3-2-1 about the activity: (3 new things they learned about careers or themselves, 2 career clusters, pathways or careers that most interest them and 1 way that they plan to use one or more of the tools they explored in this activity in the future).

EXTENSION ACTIVITY

Have students summarize their findings and create an infographic that displays the occupations they are considering, any career decisions they’ve made as a result of this activity and what they see themselves doing for work in the future. For more information on what infographics are and how to develop them, encourage students to go to http://www.schrockguide.net/infographics-as-an-assessment.html. They should consider the important information they learned from their research and their interviews, the facts they reveal about themselves and how this information can be presented visually to tell a story. They should also share any careers they are currently considering and why. Give students ample time to complete their infographics, and encourage them to present their infographics to the class.

Directions: Circle the items in each box that best describe you. You may make as many or as few circles in each box as you choose. Add up the number of circles in each box. Look to see which three boxes have the highest numbers. Find the corresponding Career Clusters on the “Career Clusters Resource Sheet” to see which Career Clusters you may want to explore.

CAREER RESEARCH INFORMATION STUDENT CAPTURE SHEET

Once you have identified the job titles that interest you, gather the following information using the Internet (see list of “Career Exploration Websites” under “Resources” for this activity) and interview(s) with people who might have done or are currently doing work that is of interest to you. Complete this information sheet for each of the career choices you’ve selected.

1. Title of job/career:

2. Which “Career Cluster” does this job/career belong to? (See “Career Clusters” resource sheet)

3. Salary Range:

4. Typical Schedule (i.e. Monday–Friday from 9:00 AM to 5:00 PM, etc.):

5. Career Benefits:

6. Career Challenges:

7. Educational requirements/minimum training necessary:

8. Schools/colleges that offer education/training programs for this career choice:

9. Total number of years (post-high school) the required education/training takes:

10. If there is a particular college or university that you’re interested in attending, does that college or university offer the education/training necessary for this career choice?

11. Does this job/career require any special certification or license? What kind?

12. Does this job/career require you to continue your education once you’ve started doing the job?

13. Personal requirements (i.e. Good people skills? Communication? Travel?):

14. What is the work environment like? (i.e. Indoors/outdoors? Office? Lab? Patrol car?)

15. Are there opportunities for advancement? Explain:
INTERVIEW FORM STUDENT CAPTURE SHEET

Note to interviewers: When you interview someone that you don’t know, be sure to shake their hand and introduce yourself. Ask for permission to take notes, record or videotape the session. It’s always a good idea to thank the person at the end of the interview or later in writing. A comment that shows you were really listening is a nice touch.

1. What is your name?

2. What were your favorite subjects in school?

3. Tell me about some jobs you have had:

4. Is there one job that stands out?

5. What kind of education or training was required to do your work?

6. What do you like best about doing this work? Why?

7. Was there anything that you didn’t like about the work? Why?

8. If you could do something over, what would it be and what would you do differently?

9. What advice do you have for me as I begin to think about what I will do after high school?
